

Conference Description

The Cancer Moonshot is the coming together of science, technology, advocacy, social science and big data to solve cancer's greatest challenges. "I plan to do two things, 1) increase resources -- both private and public -- to fight cancer. 2) break down silos and bring all the cancer fighters together--to work together, share information, and end cancer as we know it. And the goal of this initiative is simple. To double the progress, to make a decade's worth of advances in 5 years"

Vice President Joe Biden, Feb 2016

This conference will provide an overview of the Cancer Moonshot as of August 2017. There will also be presentations on the impact of the Moonshot on cancer care, with specific references to the oncology professionals in Hawaii. How will we make sure that we reach the moon?

Learner Outcomes

The learner will demonstrate increased knowledge of the evolving improvements and changes in the treatment of cancer.

The learner will be able to utilize innovative strategies in managing the side effects and symptoms experienced by the cancer patient during treatment.

The learner will be able to identify disparities in cancer care in Hawaii, and the actions which must be taken to overcome them.
